CUAJ YEARS 20 ANS

Canadian Urological Association Journal

Journal de l'Association des urologues du Canada

CUAJ.CA

CUAJ is accepting applications for its next Editor-in-Chief

We are seeking a forward-thinking leader to build on the journal's editorial excellence and guide its continued growth and innovation.

Term

The successful candidate will serve as Editor-in-Chief-elect from June 2027 to June 2028, working with the incumbent before assuming the role in July 2028. The term is four years, renewable once.

Role and responsibilities

Working closely with the Managing Editor, Editorial Board, and CUA leadership, the Editor-in-Chief sets the journal's editorial priorities and strategic direction, and oversees its quality, integrity, and visibility.

Candidate qualifications

Candidates must be members of the CUA in good standing. The successful candidate should demonstrate:

- A strong record of scholarly achievement
- Substantial peer-review and editorial experience
- A clear editorial outlook and strategic priorities for the journal
- Exceptional communication skills
- Sound judgment, collegiality, and a commitment to editorial integrity
- An understanding of the evolving trends in scholarly publishing, including digital engagement, AI, research integrity, open science, and reader expectations

To apply, interested candidates should submit:

1. A current curriculum vitae; and
2. A letter outlining their qualifications, interest, and strategic priorities for CUAJ.

Applications should be sent to:
Adriana Modica
Managing Editor, CUAJ
adriana.modica@cua.org
Application deadline: April 30, 2027

Shortlisted candidates may be invited for an interview.

Help shape the next chapter of CUAJ and its contribution to urologic scholarship, clinical practice, education, and the Canadian urologic community.

cuaj.ca